

LOUIS BELDEN GIVES UP AS ASSAILANT OF MAN WHO DIED FROM WOUNDS

ADMITTS TO CHIEF APPLEYBY THAT HE ATTACKED EDWARD P.
RYAN, YOUNG MAN WHO DIED THIS MORNING.

CLAIMS SELF-DEFENSE

Says He Was Forced to Use Razor on Ryan to Protect Himself in Struggle Near Depot at Early Hour Today.

Slashed across the throat and face with a razor, and with one finger nearly severed in an attempt to ward off the thrusts of Louis Belden with whom he fought near the wholesale grocery on West Bluff street between one and two o'clock this morning, Edward P. Ryan, a St. Paul Railway switchman residing at 120 South Academy street, died at a few minutes past nine o'clock this morning as the result of shock and loss of blood.

He refused to disclose to the police the identity of his assailant, telling Patrolman John Brown that it would take something stronger than the third degree to wring it from him, but at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, Belden, for whom the police had been searching all morning as the probable assailant of Ryan, walked into the police station and gave himself up. He said that he cut up Ryan in self defense, scratches and abrasions on his face and hands substantiated this testimony.

Was Badly Cut Up.
Ryan, covered with blood, staggered into the U-Need-A-Lunch room immediately after the attack, and delirious with pain and anger begged for a knife that he might pursue his assailant. His cousin, Ambrose Ryan, was in the lunch room and noticing the terrible wounds that had been inflicted on him, persuaded him to go into the Railroad Hotel, next door, and summoned Dr. George W. Pfeiffer to attend him.

In answer to the question as to who attacked him Ryan replied that it was a "big nigger" but his statement was given slight credence as he was so violent that the physician had to work over him almost an hour before he could be put to bed. The night policemen were promptly called and started an investigation of the cutting affray as soon as possible.

Dies This Morning.
Little fear for Ryan's recovery was entertained at the time he retired but when he failed to awaken this morning and his breathing became faint and spasmodic, Dr. Pfeiffer was again hurriedly summoned. He injected a powerful hypodermic solution into the patient in order to rally him, but it failed to have the hoped for result. Ryan's two brothers, John R. and Harvey J. Ryan, and the Rev. Father Mahoney of St. Patrick's church were present at the time of his death.

Circumstances preceding the assault on Ryan throw light on the mysterious assault. Earlier in the evening Ryan quarreled with a piano tuner at the lunch room. When the piano tuner left to take a train out of the city Ryan started to follow him. His cousin, Ambrose Ryan, fearing that he might carry the quarrel to more serious lengths, went out and minutes later returned to the lunch counter. After seeing that the piano tuner boarded the train in safety he returned to the same place.

Quarreled With Belden.
Soon after Edward Ryan came back to the lunch room he had some words with Louis Belden. The latter is stated to have said that Ryan could not "lick" him because he could run too fast, and would not let him. Belden afterwards left the place, and it was not long before Ryan went out. No more was then seen of him until he came back gashed and bleeding.

Belden, who was wanted by the police as having possible knowledge of the affair, was not to be found this morning. It was also learned that he did not spend the night at his home, 168 South Franklin street, and that this morning he authorized another man to draw what wages he had coming at the Soverhill tobacco warehouse.

Belden Surrenders.
Descriptions of Belden were telephoned to the chiefs of police in Edgerton and Stoughton, together with instructions to arrest and detain him if found. There was also reason to believe that he had gone to Beloit and Patrolman John Brown was sent down there on the one o'clock interurban car to make an investigation in that city.

Not more than half an hour afterwards the police were telephoned that Belden had boarded a switch-engine at the "New Yards" which would arrive at Janesville in about five minutes. Patrolman Sam Brown at once hurried to the Five Points, but the engine pulled up at the Northwestern station before that time. Belden got off there, walked to the police station unattended, and gave himself up. He said that Ryan had followed him out of the lunch room and attacked him, and to defend himself he drew his razor and slashed Ryan. He would not state whether or not Ryan had a weapon in his hand. The police found none on his person.

The razor which Belden used, was found lying in a pool of blood near the railway crossing gates. The handle was broken squarely off near the blade.

Inquest On Friday.
An inquest over the body of Ryan

will be held at ten o'clock tomorrow morning in Justice Tallman's office. The remains were brought to the Ryan morgue and the coroner's jury will probably view them at that place. It is not yet known what charges will be filed against Belden.

Edward P. Ryan was about twenty-two years old and was born in this city. He is mourned by his mother, Mrs. Rose Ryan, widow of the late James Ryan, two sisters, Mrs. Martin Costello, 521 Locust street, and Miss Nellie Ryan, and three brothers, John, Matthew and Roy Ryan. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

FIND PARIS BANDITS GUILTY OF CHARGES

EIGHTEEN OUT OF TWENTY-TWO PRISONERS ARE CONVICTED
BY JURY TODAY.

FOUR TO GUILLOTINE

Men Charged With Murder in Connection With Long List of Crimes
Will Pay With Their Lives.

Paris, France, Feb. 27.—The trial of the gang of twenty-two auto bandits, who held Paris in terror for months, ended today after twenty-one days. A verdict of guilty was returned against eighteen of the prisoners on counts including murder, arson and robbery. Four of the accused, including three women accomplices, were found not guilty by the jury.

Four of the twenty-two bandits were sentenced to death by the guillotine. The condemned men are Dieudonne, Callemine, Soudy and Monier against whom a number of murders were proved.

Fourteen of the others were sentenced to long term of imprisonment. List of Tragedies.

Among the indictments were no fewer than twenty-two murders, the victims being motor drivers, bank messengers, freight agents and policemen.

The gang held up a number of suburban banks, broke into the residences of prominent people, killed the chief of the Paris detectives, set fire to buildings and finally when two leaders, Bonnot and Garnier were in danger of arrest, underwent two suicides in the environs of Paris.

In the course of their seiges it was found necessary to call out hundreds of troops, whole squadrons of military, mounted police and practically the entire force of patrol men who bombarded the bandits for many hours in their sanctuaries, and then found several of the leading spirits of the gang lying dead, riddled with bullets.

Takes Poison in Cell.
Even the conclusion of their trial was accomplished by tragedy, for Carcur, the "anarchist bandit" when he heard that he was condemned to imprisonment for life committed suicide in his cell by taking poison which presumably was passed to him as he left the court room.

The trial was attended by all sorts of dramatic incidents. The jurors were threatened time and again with assassination by accomplices of the accused. Many of the three hundred and four witnesses also were menaced.

At the conclusion of the reading the spectators were stirred when counsel for four of the bandits sprang from their seats and declared that it was illegal for the presiding judge to ask the jury for oral explanations of a written verdict. They entered a strong protest against such procedure. Their pleas by the verdict were liable to the death penalty and this was a last effort to avert or postpone their fate.

Another dramatic incident occurred after the court had deliberated on the protests by prisoners, counsel and decided against them.

The presiding judge turned to the accused and asked them if they had anything to say before sentence was pronounced. Callemine, who had been found guilty of murder shouted:

"My comrade Dieudonne was not the assailant of the bank messenger Gabry."

This caused a tremendous sensation, in view of the fact that Gabry had repeatedly asserted that Dieudonne shot him.

Only four of the bandits are liable to the death penalty.

The mission of the lecturer is to explain to the farmers the harm that the bird does in spreading disease among stock. As the buzzard has generally been considered a scavenger of value it has been protected, with the result that it exists in great numbers throughout this section of the country. Permission was obtained from the State Conservation Commission several weeks ago to exclude the bird from the non-game class.

SUFFRAGISTS' LIBEL TO LIFE SERVITUDE

Public Prosecutor Makes Statement in Regard to Militant Leaders Who Burn Public Buildings.

London, Feb. 27.—Militant suffragists connected with the burning of buildings in public parks are liable to "penal servitude for life." This was the announcement today of Travers Humphreys, public prosecutor in asking the magistrate at the Kew police court to commit for trial Miss Lillian Lenton and Miss Joyce Locke. The two were arrested on February 20th for setting fire to a pavilion in the Kew Botanical Gardens.

"I make my charge," said Mr. Humphreys, "under the malicious damage act which makes it a felony punishable by penal servitude for life for any person to fire a building belonging to the king or devoted to public use."

At the hearing today only Miss Locke appeared, Miss Lenton having been released owing to ill health after carrying out a hunger strike. Mr. Humphreys said the prison authorities had reported that she would have died unless released.

The magistrate protested that the procedure was an extraordinary one. Prisoners, he continued, sometimes are released from prison, but not from custody. He immediately issued a warrant for her rearrest.

Miss Locke who also started a hunger strike while detained was forcibly fed. She pleaded today that was too ill to conduct her defense, but the case proceeded and she was committed for trial at the Assizes. Bail was fixed at $5,000 on the promise of the accused that she would refrain from any agitation pending her appearance before the jury.

A young woman who was arrested on the All England Tennis Grounds at Wimbledon last night with bags containing inflammable materials in her possession refused to give any information about herself in police court today. She was remanded for further inquiry. The police testified that they found five cans of paraffin and other combustibles near the grand stand.

APPROPRIATION BILL PASSES THE SENATE

Carries An Increase of Nearly $16,000,000 Over the Bill Passed by the House.

Washington, Feb. 27.—After an all night session filled with a bitter struggle over public building expenditures the senate at 3:15 o'clock this morning passed the public building appropriation bill carrying an increase of nearly $16,000,000 over the $25,900,000 bill passed by the house.

One sweeping amendment inserted just before passage at the suggestion of Senator Keim of Indiana prohibited the erection of a building or the purchase of a site for postoffice purposes, exclusively in any city where the postal receipts were less than $10,000 a year. This change would hold up indefinitely the erection of sixty or seventy buildings authorized in the bill.

The all night session was replete with factional arguments arising over appropriations made for memorial buildings at Washington and over alleged preference given to loyal women of the civil war in control of the affairs of the American Red Cross.

Monument Bill Passed Cross.
Senator Burke's bill providing an appropriation of $50,000 to erect a monument and marking on the battlefield of Antietam in honor of Wisconsin troops who participated in the struggle, was indefinitely postponed. Teasdale's bill forbidding the sale of liquor on Sunday was ordered for engrossment. Bill No. 72A relating to yearly meeting of the Free Will Baptist was ordered for engrossment. The senate adjourned until tomorrow.

To Restore Provision.
Chairman Perkins of the senate naval committee predicted today that the committee would restore the two battleship provision to the naval appropriation bill reduced to one by the house. The senator has called a meeting of the committee tomorrow.

VAN HISE QUESTIONED

Shapp Discussion Before Education Committee Wednesday in Regard to University Regents' Reort.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Feb. 27.—The assembly by a close vote of 50 to 45 today, passed the bill introduced by Assemblyman Headings as amended to make the terms of probate judges throughout the state six years instead of four.

The assembly passed the Holmes bill permitting a street or interurban railway company to use the tracks of a competing line where public convenience and necessity require.

Bills passed were: Gammon, authorizing county boards to employ visiting nurses; Urquhart, requiring a hunter to swear that he shot deer before he can ship it; Ross, relating to non-resident tuition fees in common schools. The assembly adjourned until tomorrow.

Scores Varsity Regents.

Speaker Martin Hull spoke vigorously for a half hour against what he called state chamber methods of conducting meetings of the board of university regents, in the hearing on the Roethe bill for publicity of those meetings before the assembly education committee yesterday afternoon.

Quite as much interest centered in the answer to his arguments by President Van Hise. The president was subjected to a fire of cross examination for over an hour, the speaker of the assembly, members of the committee and newspaper men demanding to know the inside workings of the board and of the methods employed in dispensing news to the papers of the state. Considerable criticism was directed against what was termed as a policy of the regents themselves to deny state chamber requests for the happenings of their sessions. For himself, President Van Hise said he had never refused to tell any newspaper man anything demanded, or else had referred the scribe to the proper authority for the news wanted.

Defends System.
The president volunteered that in most respects he and the author of the bill were not far apart; personal matters relating to the negotiations for new members of the faculty, as an example, were subjects which publicity would make very difficult to handle and might defeat the negotiations as well as injure the professional standing of the persons concerned. He insisted that all reports of the regents' meetings are open for inspection to anyone, that there is no censorship of the records, and that the only censorship he knew was that of student publications on matters of morals. An instance was the prohibition by faculty order of tobacco and liquor advertisements in student publications. President Van Hise said that the policy adopted has made the faculty one of the most harmonious in the United States.

The president also defended the system of working fellowships, where students were given civil service positions in the capitol. He contended that both the state government and the university were served to advantage by the combination.

Protests at Secretary.
Speaker Hull declared the regents were the only board in the state government which did not publish its proceedings, and denied that any relations between regents and faculty should be treated as confidential, although admitting there might be times when it is wise to have an inquiry in private. There a public charge has been made against a man connected with the university, he claimed a committee should investigate it and the regents should report its findings, and that where one is found guilty of gross misconduct, as in a recent case, he believed such offender should be publicly discharged.

"I am for all kinds of secrecy to protect the innocent," he said, "but not to protect the wrongdoer. When a news story is given out about the resignation of a faculty man under fire, the mere fact of the man's resignation is announced. But when a poor student gets 'canned' it goes out to every newspaper in the state."

Speaker Hull attacked the system of giving out news by the university news bureau, which he said savored of bureaucracy and not democracy.

O. D. Brandenburg, a Madison newspaper man, objected to the same system and pleaded for more prompt reports of the regents' transactions. J. Winter, Everett, a Milwaukee newspaper man, made a vigorous attack on the ruling policies relative to publicity at the university. Mr. Fairbairn of the Milwaukee Merchants and Manufacturers' association coincided with the newspaper men and as an alternate proposition said the principle of openness in university affairs should prevail.

The Cannon bill fixing the limitation of twenty-five cents for each tract or lot of land as the fee for publication of notice of land sold was killed by a vote of 76 to 19. Assemblyman Rossier, a printer, protested against the further raise in the charge in view of the fact that the price had been raised by the last legislature from 10 to 15 cents.

N. Stewart's bill appropriating $2,000 for the improvement of the Wisconsin memorial park, Camp Randall, was unanimously passed together with a bill defining the limits of the park and allowing the university to use the ground for drill and athletics.

LABOR UNION FRIEND FOR CABINET OFFICE

President-Elect Wilson Considers Representative Wilson of Pennsylvania for New Labor Portfolio.—Other Positions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 27.—The plans of union labor for representation at the council table of the president of the United States may be recognized in the selection of Representative William B. Wilson of Pennsylvania to be secretary of the newly created department of labor.

This information along with other reliable advices came to the political leaders at the capitol today from Trenton.

Representative Wilson has been endorsed by the American Federation of Labor and was at one time secretary of the United Mine Workers of America.

Suggest Brooklyn Man.
From the same sources it was learned that William C. Redfield of Brooklyn might be a member of the cabinet. Just what portfolio he is being considered for was not divulged, but it is known that the president-elect holds the highest regard for Mr. Redfield's views on the tariff and has for some time hoped to have him as one of his close advisers.

About three portfolios, agriculture, interior and war little information is known, and it is hinted that they will be filled by men whose names have not been generally mentioned heretofore.

For Attorney General.
Though William A. Glasgow, Pennsylvania lawyer, and Edgar Farrar of New Orleans, former president of the American Bar Association, are reported still to be under the consideration of the president-elect, the most reliable information obtainable today is that James C. McReynolds of New York will be the new attorney general.

Confirmation from every side that the president-elect has picked William J. Bryan for secretary of state, William G. McAdoo for secretary of the treasury, Josephus Daniels for secretary of the navy and Representative Albert Burleson of Texas for postmaster general.

Brandeis in Mind.
The name of Louis D. Brandeis is still known to be uppermost in Mr. Wilson's mind for the secretary of commerce as the post now filled by Mr. Nagel, probably will be called hereafter.

It is said that Mr. Wilson from the first was anxious to place a progressive republican in his cabinet and the selection of Mr. Brandeis is believed to be the result of that desire.

Though information as yet with respect to diplomatic posts is meagre, it became known here today that David R. Penfield of Philadelphia and Henry N. Morganthau of New York very likely would be chosen for ambassadors, the former to Rome and the latter to Berlin.

Plans As President.
Lively discussion was precipitated in congressional circles today by a published statement credited to President-elect Wilson that he intended to spend part of each working day in the president's room at the capitol to keep in closer touch with legislative office. Such action on the part of the president would overturn a precedent which has restricted the president's visit to the capitol to the last hours of a session of congress.

Democratic leaders today discussed the reported plan of Mr. Wilson with reluctance though many seemed to favor it.

Francisco Villa Said to Have Taken
Field in Sonora and Carranza Declares Any Compromise
is Impossible.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 27.—Francisco Villa whom the late President Madero converted from banditry, then made him a general of insurgents, is reported to have taken the field in Sonora seeking vengeance for the death of his former chief. He disappeared yesterday from El Paso where had been sojourning since his escape from the penitentiary at Mexico City.

Villa had been incarcerated by order of General Huerta who charged that Villa then commanding a volunteer corps had returned to his former methods. Villa has a strong following which is expected to join him.

Quiet at Chihuahua.

Passengers arriving today from Chihuahua City report all quiet with no organized opposition to the militia of the government. The trial of Abraham Gonzales, the elected governor charged with sedition, is progressing. An attorney has been appointed to defend the deposed governor, who remains in the penitentiary. Alberto Madero an uncle of the deceased president is still a refugee in the American consulate at Chihuahua city passengers report.

The Mexican Central railway remains out of commission below Chihuahua city, due to the activity of mutinous volunteer troops.

Minor uprisings are reported at various points to the south.

Compromise Impossible.

Eagle Pass, Tex., Feb. 27.—General Carranza of Coahuila received a message to the Associated Press representative at Eagle Pass today. It read as follows: "I wish to emphatically deny all reports to the effect that I have given in to the Huerta government and I wish to state that I have no intention of submitting to a compromise of any sort."

After Border Rebels.

Laredo, Tex., Feb. 27.—Provisional President Huerta has sent telegrams to several merchants of Laredo, stating that he understood Colonel Gerónimo Villareal had taken possession of Nuevo Laredo; that he recognized Villareal's force as an integral part of the border revolutionary movement and that their endeavor would be to restore peace to the republic.

It was learned that a committee from Mexico City has arrived in Monterey and will go by special train to a point half way between Laredo and Monterey to confer with a committee named by the authorities at present in charge of Nuevo Laredo. It was said that another conference will be held with the revolutionists in northwestern Mexico, including Pascual Orozco, Jr.

Recognition of the revolutionists in Laredo is not accepted to mean that the new government recognized their right to decree forty per cent reduction in customs duties or the appointment of a new Mexican consul on the American side of the river. These acts are being left for settlement at a later conference. The port of Nuevo Laredo in the meantime remains closed to custom traffic.

Question of Recognition.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The appointment by President Huerta of a new ambassador to the United States in the person of Emilio Rabasa is expected to have the effect of bringing to a speedy issue the question of recognition by the United States of the provisional government of Mexico. Up to the present time and relations between the two governments have been on a de facto basis and the administration has not been committed in any sense to a political recognition of the Huerta government, though Ambassador Wilson has freely transacted business with it.

New that the threatened revolt of Governor Carranza of Coahuila actually has taken form the military authorities here have concluded that it is yet too early to carry out their plans for any considerable reduction of the American military force in the Mexican border.

Confidence Gaining.

Confidence in the Huerta administration daily appears to wax together if it is to be placed in the government reports as to the rapid vanishing of the rebel spirit throughout the republic. Plots and conspiracies against the provisional

TOBACCO GROWERS SCORE A VICTORY IN THE PAUL BILL

Measure Introduced by Rock County Assemblyman Recommended by Committee—Other Legislative News.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 27.—Tobacco growers of the state with their first fight in the committee on agriculture yesterday afternoon, when after a long debate the committee recommended the Paul bill which provides that buyers shall pay for tobacco the price upon which they agree. The same bill will hit the best sugar buyers. The bill was endorsed by members of the Wisconsin Equity society. This morning the measure was reported to the floor of the house for passage.

At Contract Price.
The measure provides that the crop shall be paid for "at the price of amount specified in the contract, without regard of the quality or condition of such crops or portions thereof at the time of delivery, unless such inferior quality or unsound condition shall be due to the negligence or willful act of the vendor, subsequent to such purchase." The measure is made applicable to all crops, but it was stated before the committee that this measure would save tobacco growers of the state many thousands of dollars. Some time ago Assemblyman Fred L. Holmes of Madison prepared a bill on this subject but withdrew it because the Paul bill covered the subject. Holmes favored the passage of the Paul bill.

Kill Spoer Bill.
By a unanimous vote the agricultural committee slaughtered the Spoer bill, which provided for the election of members of the state board of agriculture by agricultural societies, rather than by appointment by the governor. Mr. Spoer made an argument in favor of the measure claiming that these societies would select men especially trained in their line. He said that such appointments made by the governor were mainly for political purposes. Mrs. Nora Jensen of Oshkosh, who was the author of this idea, read scores of letters to the committee, endorsing the plan. She said it would put life into the organization. Assemblyman Carpenter said that on the whole he would favor a plan of this character, but there was so much opposition to the state fair before the legislature that he would not favor the move at this time. He declared that he had known of men being appointed to the fair board who didn't know common breeds of horses.

Aid to Creditors.
The Hedding bill providing that five days' notice shall be given creditors before stocks of goods can be sold brought scores of people from Milwaukee to endorse the idea when it was considered yesterday afternoon by the committee on state affairs. Among those who appeared in favor of the measure were Fred Wetzel, Michael Slattery, president of the Milwaukee Grange, and R. J. Richert, secretary. Richard J. Morantz and F. G. Smith. The general argument was that such a law would prevent a man disposing of his goods before his creditors had been satisfied.

The committee also heard arguments on the Hull bill providing that the owner of a dam shall be doubly liable for the accidents due to the breaking of a dam. This measure is suggested as the result of the flood at Black River Falls, when the breaking of the Hatfield dam resulted in loss of property and probably precipitated the flood. John B. Sabin and former Senator T. W. Brazeau appeared against the bill.

To Protect Crabs.
Crabs in the state of Wisconsin will be protected. The crab or crayfish industry was explained to the committee on fish and game yesterday afternoon with the result that there will be a closed season from March 15 to May 25, during the spawning season. Assemblyman Schnitzler pointed out that within the last few years this has grown to be a great industry. One company in Green Bay ships more than $15,000 of crabs out of the state annually. It was suggested that there should be some method of licensing crab fishermen, so that a part of the money would come back to the state. The committee deemed this inadvisable inasmuch as the present crab law was largely an experiment.

GOOD HUMOR RETURNS AGAIN. Good Humor Returned with Change to Proper Food.

"For many years I was a constant sufferer from indigestion and nervousness, amounting almost to prostration," writes a Montana man. "My blood was impoverished, the vision was blurred and weak, with moving spots before my eyes. This was a steady daily condition. I grew listless and eventually got so nervous I could not keep my books posted, nor handle accounts satisfactorily. I can't describe my sufferings. 'Nothing I ate agreed with me, till one day I happened to notice Grape-Nuts in a grocery store, and bought a package out of curiosity to know what it was. 'I liked the food from the very first, eating it with cream, and now I buy it by the case and use it daily. I soon found that Grape-Nuts food was supplying brain and nerve force as nothing in the drug line ever had done or could do. 'It wasn't long before I was restored to health, comfort and happiness. 'Through the use of Grape-Nuts food my digestion has been restored, my nerves are steady once more, my eyesight is good again, my mental faculties are clear and acute, and I have become so good-natured that my friends are truly astonished at the change. I feel younger and better than I have for 20 years. No amount of money would induce me to surrender what I have gained through the use of Grape-Nuts food. BASKET BALL.
Fans who like a fast basket ball game should see the Lakotas play the Turrgemeinde Blues of Chicago Friday night.

LINK AND PIN

At the conclusion of the hearing a pointed colloquy between Dr. Victor Kutchin and Chairman E. L. Urquhart threw the committee and auditors into laughter.

"It seems to me that this bill is contrary to progressive principles for the crab moves backward and the motto of the state is forward," said the doctor.

"Yes, but the earth is round and both should meet," answered Urquhart.

ST. PAUL MAY INSTALL NEW BLOCK SIGNALS ON DIVISIONS THROUGH HERE

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company is rapidly completing the work of installing the new automatic block signals on their main lines. The work has gone on for some time and eventually the new system of signals will be installed on the divisions running through Janesville. The Northwestern road has these semaphores on their main lines and all the more important roads are adopting this system which will greatly reduce the number of collisions and wrecks caused by misunderstanding of signals. The railroad commissions of many states are demanding that the railroads adopt this system or if they do not equip their routes with block signals, shall increase the number of telegraph offices in order that the trains be better spaced.

The desirability of the block system as the only reasonable safe method of regulating the movements of trains has been recently set forth by interstate commerce commission in their reports. This body of men also reported in favor of making the railroads equip their lines with this system by government laws. The block system is worked with tall signals and which extend over the track and the engineers are instructed as to the clearness of the track by the angle of the arm. These semaphores are a mile or so apart and the space between is called a "block." As a train enters a block, the signals drop and no other train can enter that block until the first train has cleared or passed into the next block, making it impossible for a train to collide with another.

Local railroad men are in hopes that the St. Paul officials will put them through on the Mineral Point division as soon as possible. They would prove a safeguard as an engineer expressed it: "They can't get drunk or leave their post."

SUPERINTENDENT INSPECTS MINERAL POINT DIVISION

N. P. Thurber, the new appointed superintendent of the Mineral Point division, and a party composed of C. H. Agnes, N. Gregory and O. G. Franklin inspected the Mineral Point division yesterday afternoon. The party passed over the line with a special train returning to Janesville today. Mr. Thurber returned to his office in Chicago this morning.

Enough for Twelve—or Twenty-Four.

The casual brother says there will be one or two dozen people at luncheon. He will telephone us 15 minutes before they arrive. Yes, really, that's the best he can do. So we prepare for one or two dozen people; and they must sit down to luncheon because men hate a buffet meal. We struggle with the problem, how many chickens are required for 12 or 24 people? The answer, however, is really obvious. Enough for 24 will be enough for 12. —Katharine Baker, in the Atlantic.

WILL SUPPLY NEEDS OF PUPILS AT PLAY

Edgerton School Board Takes Important Action at Regular Monthly Meeting Last Evening.

Edgerton, Feb. 27.—The monthly meeting of the board of education was held last evening and much business of importance was transacted.

The principal was requested to investigate the departmental methods of instruction with a view to introducing the system in the 6th, 7th and 8th grades next year. The resolution was passed that three new walks be built on the grounds of the grade buildings and that the grounds be equipped with apparatus sufficient to meet the needs of the pupils in their play.

It was also decided to suggest at the annual meeting in July that the position of the head of schools be changed from that of supervising principal to city superintendent. It has been determined that approximately $150 annually can be saved to the district if this be done.

A course of study was adopted which has been tried out in the grades during the past year and arrangements made for the preparation of courses on moral and civics and for credit to be given for home industrial work. In view of the fact that so few pupils are taking Latin, it has been decided to drop Latin from the school curriculum and to introduce if possible a course for the training of teachers. The system of supervision of drawing now in vogue, and the ungraded department which was instituted this year are to be continued next year.

The introduction of domestic science in grades and high schools was suggested and a committee appointed to investigate the advisability of introducing the work next fall. The committee will report at the March meeting of the board.

Sport Snap Shots

by Dan McCarty

It looks very much as if our old friend Christy Mathewson were afflicted with mental short-sightedness. In a recent signed article in which he named the leading southpaws of the present day he entirely overlooked his neighboring burg of Brooklyn and its clever portside binger, Nap Rucker. Said Matty: "Margard Gregg, Collins, Tyler and Eddie Plank make up the present day list of southpaws." It's a safe bet that Nap could sling the pellet with any one of those mentioned.

Seeing that the year 1913, by all laws of superstition, should be a hoodoo year, and that in it all manner of remarkable things should happen, several sporting editors have taken it upon themselves to keep up with times and forecast marvelous happenings. Mindful of the way in which last year Boston came from fourth place in the American league to a world championship and how the lowly Washington team slid into second place, the suggestion has been made that the Braves may win a pennant and that the Trolley Dodgers might possibly land in the first division, to say nothing of the soaring hopes aroused in Gotham by the advent of Frank Chance as manager of the Highlanders. Evidently some folks can do a lot of dreaming.

Jess Willard apparently is looking for some more of that "easy" New York money. The Texas heavyweight has announced that he will soon go to New York in an effort to clear himself of the charge that he ran out of a bout with One-Round Davis in Buffalo. The state athletic commission recently suspended Willard for this alleged offense. Willard has his eye on a match with the winner of the Gunboat Smith-Bombardier Wells bout, which is scheduled for Madison Square Garden on March 14.

Breeding interests are anxiously awaiting the final settlement of the state of horse racing in New York City, for upon that question largely depends the future of the thoroughbred horse in this country. Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, has declared that the thoroughbred is the only breed qualified to furnish mounts suitable for the army. Hence it is that unusual interest will attend the appeal of the Paul Shane case to the court of appeals, if the opponents of horse racing do not care to consider decisive the recent decision in the appellate division of the supreme court favorable to racing.

Dutch Berger, touted by Coast fans as "the whole Los Angeles team," is said to be causing Buck Weaver gallons of worry. Berger is reputed to be a second edition of Mike Donlin, with ability to throw from any position, to develop the ball for keeps and to fight from the tap of the heel. Still, Buck is a pretty good short stop, and it will require a good deal of showing to chase him from his job.

Slosson, veteran billiard player, loves his little billiard cue almost better than his life. He has used the same cue for the last thirty years, and it has almost become a part of himself. When he finishes a game he takes the cue apart and puts it in a silk-lined bag, so that it may be protected from all effects of atmosphere and possible rough handling.

BASKETBALL TOURNEY AT MILTON COLLEGE

Ten High School Teams in Southern Wisconsin Will Compete in Event, March 19 and 20. (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milton, Feb. 27.—The athletic management of Milton college is making elaborate plans for an interscholastic meet of high schools in Southern Wisconsin to be held March 19-20, in which the following schools will be represented by teams: Edgerton, Stouten, Fort Atkinson, Lake Mills, West Allis, Monroe, Palmyra, Walworth, Milton and Milton Junction. A silver loving cup will be awarded to the team winning the tournament and gold medals to the individual members; also silver medals to the players of team securing second place and bronze medals to those taking third. A banquet is being planned for the contenders and arrangements are progressing for an enthusiastic meet. Donnelly of Madison will referee the games. This is the first time a tournament has been conducted by the college in their new gymnasium and all indications point to a fast meet.

W. H. Whitteit has moved into his new bungalow on College street. Gien Whitteit, who has been quite ill, is able to be about the house. Mrs. W. H. SPORTSMEN'S EXHIBITION OPENED IN NEW YORK

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) New York, Feb. 27.—The nineteenth annual New York Sportsmen's Show opened in Madison Square Garden today for practically a two weeks' session. The interior of the big building presents an attractive appearance, with its settings of outdoor life, hunting, fishing and shooting camps and the trophies of the chase. All the features of the previous exhibitions have been retained, while a number of novelties have been added to the program. More attention is to be given to the trap shooting and fly casting contests than ever before. The trap shooting tournament, especially, promises to be a notable affair. Besides the regular contest, there will be various special amateur shoots, and an inter-city competition between Philadelphia and New York. The individual gunners will include a number of the world's record makers.

drawn it will be utterly ineffective, that the commission would be very expensive, that it says nothing about prize fights so that the commission could not touch such contests, referring only to boxing matches and sporting bouts; that the penalties provided are absurd in their inadequacy, and that commission's control of the game is no more necessary than for regulation of dances and picture shows.

"The purpose of the bill," he declared, "is evidently the possibility of securing relief from prosecution by local authorities." In this connection he charged that the license revocation clause is an alternative to the fine provided for violation is a clever means for allowing promoters to escape the fine. He said he did not oppose boxing matches properly conducted; it was the commercial evils attending them that called for protest.

EXPECT TO DEFEAT LAKE MILLS FRIDAY

Janesville Stands Good Show of Winning State Championship at Appleton—At Beloit Next Week.

If the Janesville high school basketball squad can defeat Lake Mills at the latter place tomorrow night, then they will undoubtedly be in the state meet at Appleton on March 27th, 28th and 29th. Lake Mills is a new school for the locals, and they will take all precautions tomorrow night, in an attempt to nose out a victory. The small floor at that place may prove to some disadvantage to the locals, and if it does, the score may be a low one. The team will leave over the North-western road at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon, returning some time Saturday.

Next week Janesville will engage in a three day tournament at Beloit College. Teams from Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin will be present. The finals will be staged on Saturday night. The locals will take things easy at the tournament, because it will be remembered that last year Janesville "played their hands off," and then went to the state tournament and were defeated in first game. The team this year, are looking forward to much success at Appleton, and there is no reason why they should not capture one of the places better than third. They have been putting in much time this week in practice and are prepared for the Lake Mills game and for the Beloit tournament.

Word has been received from Appleton, that the locals have about the best chance of capturing the honors at Appleton, of any other team in the state. Their victory over Lake Mills, tomorrow night will put them in the tournament, according to Appleton authorities. It thus appears that two teams from this section will be admitted. Racine is in the race, and the locals at first thought they would have to play them in an elimination game, but it now looks as though they will not.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Myers Opera House commencing Thursday, Feb. 27, the Jess Hale Stock Company will open a four nights' engagement presenting for your amusement high class comedy dramas in an up-to-date manner. Mr. Hale also carries several high class specialty artists with the regular dramatic company and carries special scenery for all his plays, making first class productions of them. The opening play will be, "Across the Desert," H. Walter Vanduyke's great American play of life in the far west in the days of the early sixties. Ladies free on Thursday night under usual conditions. Prices 10c-25c-30c. Ladies—children matinee Saturday and Sunday 10c-25c.

"MUTT AND JEFF." Gus Hill will send his big musical comedy "Mutt and Jeff" to the Myers for an engagement of one night, Tuesday March 4. "Mutt and Jeff" has achieved the biggest kind of a hit throughout the entire country, in fact it has been proclaimed the financial success of the theatrical season, which would naturally mean that it is the best musical comedy production of the year. One does not meet with financial success without merit to deserve it. A company of forty-five people is carried, with a car load of gorgeous scenery and effects.

"THE ROSE MAID." The Rose Maid, for whom its managers claim the distinction of being the only comic opera since "The Merry Widow" to run all summer in New York City, will play an engagement at the Myers Theater on Wednesday evening, March 5. The management of this theater was enabled to secure this splendid attraction through the fact of its being forced out of the Colonial Theater, Chicago, through previous bookings at that house, after a run of fifty performances to record-breaking business. The company seen here will be exactly the same as it was during its Chicago engagement and there will be the same complete production of scenery, effects and costumes.

From all reports the piece has challenged the beautiful "Spring Maid," its score being equally musical and delightful. Everywhere that it has appeared orchestras are featuring its seductive "Roses Bloom for Lovers" and other melodic gems which it is said to be filled with. Werbs and Luescher, who also produced "The Spring Maid," have tried to eclipse their splendid work in the above named opera, in this, their latest work and they have spared neither time nor expense to accomplish this result. It is a much more elaborate production than "The Spring Maid," at times bordering on the spectacular. The composer, Bruno Granichstaedten adds a new name to the list of Viennese composers who have set the world a-waltzing and he is the first foreign opera king to come to America to witness his opera in English. His splendid co-operation in its presentation last year has added much to its value.

The story of "The Rose Maid" is a tale of romance covering a handsome and gallant young Duke who plunges into excesses, while lavishing his borrowed wealth on his friends, and is deserted by all save a faithful little rose girl. With the scenes laid in a London palace and a fashionable hotel in Belgium's gayest resort, Ostend, the piece has a correct atmosphere for a blithesome libretto. The ensembles are said to be unusually dashing and colorful, requiring a company of nearly 100 people. The music is declared to be both light and ambitious and employs a special orchestra carried by the company.

The large and most attractive chorus of "The Rose Maid" has so impressed one of the leading newspaper critics of New York as to cause him to feelingly refer to it in his review as a rosebud garden of girls. And these girls can sing too. Beasts of their great looks they could still win approval with their voices. Heading the brilliant cast will be dainty Mizzi Hajos, the petite Hungarian prima donna who scored such a success last season in the role of the Princess Bozenna in "The Spring Maid," and she will be supported by Al Shean, who has established a record as one of the leading exponents of German comedy in his characterization of the quaint money-lender, Schmuke.

LA FOLLETTE'S MEASURE.

That the great financial interests of the country are keeping close watch
on the possible legislation of congress
is evidenced by the attention that is being paid to the bill known as the La Follette valuation measure. Senator La Follette is again in the forefront and the Wall Street Journal discusses his proposed measure in the following manner:

"In his revision of the House bill
for the valuation of the property of all common carriers by the Interstate Commerce Commission, Senator La Follette reveals the fact that he is more progressive than a Progressive,
and perhaps more, a statesman than either, despite all the tense noise he has made in Washington over the congenial wickedness of capital—in New York. The text of the bill as it comes from his hands reveals clearly, too,
that he is aware of the several cases
pending in the supreme court, notably the Minnesota rate cases, in which the principles that must govern the valuation of public utilities for rate-
making purposes are about to be laid down.

"The measure, which has excellent prospects of bearing President Taft's signature, does not anticipate the country's highest court by attempting to decide whether the owners of the railroads are entitled to earn a return
on 'original cost' or some measure of present value. It directs the Interstate Commerce Commission to ascertain the original cost to date, the cost of reproduction new, the cost of reproduction in depreciated condition
and 'other values, if any'.

"In reporting these various values
the commission is required to explain
fully the methods used in reaching
them and the reasons for differences,
if any. Thereafter the bill says:

"Whenever the commissioner shall have completed the tentative valuation of the property of any common carrier, and the tentative valuations
of its property in each of the several states and territories and the District of Columbia, it shall give notice to the carrier concerned. If thirty days elapse without protest from the carrier, the tentative valuation becomes permanent and is thereafter prima facie evidence of the value of the property in any proceedings under the interstate commerce act. If protested, the valuation becomes the subject of a hearing, and when thereafter amended to the satisfaction of the commission, likewise becomes permanent.

"It will be observed that the measure begins by requiring several species of valuation, but subsequently speaks of 'the valuation,' as though to ignore the question which valuation
among several (certain to vary widely in most cases) is to be accepted as permanent. Evidently it is Senator La Follette's intention to leave the commission free to steer its difficult course between confiscation and inflation, with such help as the supreme court may be about to extend it. That help may prove very great indeed. On it must depend the wisdom of this measure as it stands.

"Incidentally, it may be remarked
that this newspaper is receiving distinguished support for its assertion of a year ago that the valuation could not possibly be done for the $3,000,000
which Commissioner Clements, testifying before a committee of the House
and relying upon estimates previously made by Prof. Adams, said the work would cost. Prof. Commons of Wisconsin has informed a senate committee that it will cost the United States $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 and the railroads as much more.

"But if the commission organizes
its staff with a wide and broad discretion, the $15,000,000 or $20,000,000
which a real national valuation must certainly cost, will be little enough to pay for removing the subject of rate
regulation from the domain of political guesswork."

UPROOTING A PLAGUE.

China, like Mexico, is witnessing bloody work by the government. Hundreds of people are being killed by the troops for disobeying the laws
and orders of the central authorities of the republic. But in China this is being done to uproot an old and deadly national plague.

The warfare of the government
upon opium is being carried on so relentlessly that in provinces like Pakken, where the cultivation of the opium poppy is defended by many of the inhabitants because it is the most profitable crop they can grow, conditions have been created akin to civil war. In districts where poppy fields are common the owners of the land

have taken up weapons to fight for their forbidden means of getting their livelihood, and there the government forces have slain by wholesale those who resist its decrees.

This is strong medicine for an old
and deep-rooted disease and the way
it is being administered shows that the Chinese government is in deadly earnest. Its determination is sufficient assurance of its ultimate success
in making an end of the cultivation of the opium poppy in China, and when that shall have been accomplished the Anglo-Indian authorities
will be bound by treaty obligations to stop the exportation of Indian opium to China. One of the oldest of the nations is apparently sure of its final emancipation from an ancient curse
which has retarded for many generations the physical, mental and moral progress of its people.

It is certain that Castro has gone
to Cuba to be in closer touch with his
dear friends, the revolutionists, in Mexico. It is safe to say he is figuring out ways and means for financing
a similar uprising in his own dear
country.

Chicago had a primary the other
day and after it was all over discovered that three hundred and fifty thousand of its citizens had failed to vote. This demonstrates that the average citizen is tired of politics.

Everybody has decided that Mr.
Bryan is to be secretary of state except Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan himself. It may be possible that Bryan
does not want the job after all.

Consideration of the traction situation in New York leads to the conclusion that the subways are so named because they have an effectual under-
hold on the municipal government.

The Washington hikers certainly are a band of brave women. The privations of their march have revealed
the sizes of the shoes they ought to wear all the time.

It now appears that the recent revolt against Madero and his officials
was planned a year ago by Huerta and Diaz, who worked in union all during the fighting.

Now that the spring training season has begun vaudeville will have to struggle along all by itself without the assistance of the baseball player
actors.

There is plenty of opportunity for the average citizen to get in some good licks with a snow shovel on his front walks before time to cut the grass.

Perhaps the moving picture men are
just as well satisfied that some time ago they passed up Mexico City as an unpromising field.

Mr. Chao-Hsin Chu has been elected to represent the Chinese of New York
in the Peking congress. Some mileage
there.

The average man is glad that his name is not Mr. Emeline Pankhurst
after all. Henry Hebeck is good enough for some men these days.

Americans should not scoff too
much at the London suffragists.
There was Carrie Nation, you know.

wasteful to keep on discovering the

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

STENOGRAPHERS.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

A STENOGRAPHER is an animated dictionary bound in tan shoes,
a starched shirtwaist and a demure look. She is sometimes placed in close juxtaposition to a sentimental employer bound in full calf.

The mission of the stenographer
is to take down somebody else's thought before it vaporizes and dissolves into the ether. She translates it into the English language on a typewriter. Thousands of men all over
this continent
are sitting around
in fancy vests
and dictating
to her. She is a dainty, dainty
creature, who couldn't spell on a bet. The stenographer has to
shape them up with a rat-tat-tat file
and try to make them dovetail with the context. This is a difficult task
when the person who is doing the dictating thinks in words of two syllables
and tries to express himself in words
of six.

For some reason or other, young women stenographers are always so good looking that a man's mind is liable to wander and spoil the contents of a business letter by inserting
a lot of irrelevant compliments. Many a man has started to order a set of new safety razor blades and wound
up by inviting the stenographer out to dinner. If the average stenographer should take down all that is said to her by employers whose minds have been thrown out of gear
by her complexion, her notebook
would look like a cross between a business manual and the love letters of Madame Pompadour.

Some business men seldom hire a stenographer for ornamental purposes,
but prefer to have one who can spell
short, crisp words without attacking Webster's Unabridged with both hands. This kind of stenographer may never cause any heart flutterings in the business office, but it will not be necessary to prebroad her letters

with a heavy heart and write explanatory notes on the margin.

SPUR OF THE MOMENT

When I Left School.
I remember, I remember the day
that I quit school.
I got a nice diploma for missing
every rule.
I was the wisest mortal who ever
left the place.
There was no person like me in all the human race.
I had the old Homer faded and Solo-
men as well.
The real reach of my knowledge
would take too long to tell.
And I was downright sorry. It really seemed a shame
That I should have to go out and
teach the world its game.
For I was tenderhearted and couldn't hear to see
The looks of jealous anger when people heard of me.

The teacher, to assure me, was kind enough to say
The other folks would manage to get along some way.
I didn't quite believe him. You see that was before
I'd taken my first toddle outside
the college door.
Then I set forth to conquer the poor
old easy world
With wind and weather charming
and every sail unfurled.
'Twas several long years ago, how many I forget.
But still I don't mind own' the world ain't conquered yet.
I remember, I remember the day
that I quit school.
Since then I have been learnin' how
not to be a fool.

BIG DEMAND FOR APPLES
NOTED ON LOCAL MARKET

Janesville people have the opportunity of buying some of the best apples
on the market at the present time.
Apples have proved the favorite fruit
of the local people and are selling in a greater quantity than any other fruit. The apples upon the Janesville market are the best procurable, coming from New York state and are the very best in quality, being large
and of a very favorable red color.
These apples are not quite as large as
the western apple but are so far ahead
of their western brothers in eating qualities that comparison is useless.
Baldwins and Russets are the two favorite brands and are selling in a quantity far beyond oranges whose
quality has been effected by the freeze
in California.

Lovers of the Cauliflower have ample opportunity to supply their wants at the local market. Cauliflowers are doing well and are well supplied with this vegetable and all dealers voice their praise in its quality.

In size it does not quite compare with that grown in Wisconsin but all users have stated a favorable opinion
of the flavor of the California product.

PARCEL POST
HOW TO USE IT.

(The new parcel post law includes some perplexing provisions. The Gazette is from day to day presenting a concise explanation of some of the more important sections of the law).

The operation of the parcel
post system has been so successful that on March 1, by the postmaster general's order, it will be possible to secure special delivery of parcel post packages
by paying the customary fee of 10 cents in special delivery
stamps or ordinary postage.

In case the latter are used it will be necessary to write the words "Special delivery" across the face of each package. Delivery will be made by the regular special delivery messenger
who receives 5 cents of each 10
cent fee.

The Gazette Parcel Post Map
gives the zone limits, rates and all the provisions of the law. It is a good Geographical map of the United States and for a quick comprehension of the parcel post law is invaluable. This map is now on sale at 25 cents,
if called for at the Gazette office, or 35 cents by mail.

The map is FREE if you pay
one year's subscription in advance to the "Daily Gazette."

BASKET WILLOW CUTTINGS
ARE RAISED IN VIRGINIA

The department of agriculture is getting ready to fill requests for the basket willow cuttings grown last year on its experimental farm at Arlington, Va. Distribution of these cuttings takes place early in March
each spring to farmers and others
who wish to make trials of basket willow on lands too wet for other crops.
From 50 to 100 cuttings are given
each person.

The distribution is not a mere giving away of government material to persons who desire to get something
free; because it is required that each recipient of cuttings shall make a report of the treatment given and the results obtained. Several select varieties are included in each set that is distributed, and the aim is to secure information as to the best variety for each locality, since no one kind can be relied upon to yield maximum results over a wide range of territory.

In the basket willow investigations
carried on at the Arlington farm, Arlington, Va., and at Ames, Ia., by the forest service, particular attention
has been given to the development of American species for basket making purposes. The European species now commonly used have never proved themselves entirely adapted to American conditions and are as a rule less thrifty than the native species. At present there is at Arlington a willow garden containing nearly 500 lots
gathered from all parts of the country
and representing practically every species and variety found in the United States and Canada.

A system of selection which has been carried on for several years is already indicating which strains show
the best basket willow characteristics
for American conditions.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one drugged disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood
and mucous surfaces of the system, there-
by destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. Catarrh have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send

A Bushel of Potatoes

It is not enough for the farmer who raises a crop
of potatoes to know the size of the potato crop in his own section, nor is it enough
for him to know all about the potato crop for the entire country. He should be informed regarding all other crops, because the price he should receive for his potatoes is not based solely on the potato crop, but is influenced and affected directly by the volume and
price of other farm products.

The Crop Report which this Bank issues each month, brings together the statistical compilations
of all the various crop authorities, and aims to furnish the grower with exact information, as near as may be, regarding the volume and price of all crops everywhere.

These Reports should be of great value to any grower and will be furnished without charge on request.

FLORIDA EDITOR IS EXPECTED IN CITY

Mrs. Pauline-Browne Hazen of Tampa Tribune is a Sister of Mrs. Frank Slawson.

The following notice from the Lakeland, (Fla.) Telegram will be interesting in this city where Mrs. Hazen of Tampa, Fla., has visited a number of times. This "Sister" journalist is expected to visit her sister, Mrs. Frank D. Slawson, of Ruger avenue, early the coming summer.

"The Tampa Blue Book, just fresh from the press is on the writer's desk, and the people of Tampa are indeed to be congratulated on having such a combination of interesting facts at their command concerning the various church and social organizations of that growing city.

In the book appears all the clubs, societies, etc., of the city, with the officers of each, and also a list of the members, both native and associate, of each organization. The addresses of all persons noted in the Blue Book appear among the last pages.

"Mrs. Pauline-Browne-Hazen, the talented author, is one of the best women writers in Florida. She is the able society writer of the Tampa Morning Tribune, and being familiar with all social affairs of the city, was enabled to give the people of that city a true and complete conception of the social activities of the growing South Florida metropolis. Aside from her literary achievements Mrs. Hazen is an artist of note, and her beautiful paintings and other works of art have been admired by hundreds.

"In the Tampa Blue Book Mrs. Hazen has achieved a great success, as it is one of the most useful works ever issued in Tampa and after all is said and done; it is the useful things that count these days."

THIEVES RISK LIVES TO ENTER BUILDING

Crawl Underneath Milwaukee Street Bridge in Darkness to Break Into Rehberg Store.

Risking their lives by crawling along the stringers underneath the Milwaukee street bridge in the darkness, would burglars last night forced an entrance to the store of Amos Rehberg by taking out a rear window. No goods were discovered missing and as far as is known nothing else was taken. Evidently the burglars were in search of money only, for it would have been almost impossible to take any goods out of store over the hazardous route by which they entered and departed. There is no way to reach the rear of the building except from the front doors or the way the thieves took.

DELIGHTFUL PROGRAM BY SOUTHERN READER

Mrs. Chilton at Presbyterian Church Last Night Recited Stories of Joel Chandler Harris.

Mrs. William Calvin Chilton, a noted reader of southern and negro dialect, gave a delightful program of recitations from the works of Joel Chandler Harris at the Presbyterian church last evening. This was the third and last number of the lecture course which has been held this season under the auspices of the Young Men's Club.

Mrs. Chilton told briefly but in an interesting way something of the life of Mr. Harris, whose delightful stories have received such wide recognition. She related several instances which indicated his modesty, and his keen appreciation of human nature.

Among the readings which Mrs. Chilton gave were several of the Uncle Remus stories, including one of the "Brer" Fox and "Brer Rabbit," and two stories of Minnie Anne, "How She Went to the Legislature," and "How She Went Into Business." She also read three of his poems.

With a full sympathy with her subject and a complete understanding of the negro and his ways, Mrs. Chilton's readings were at once amusing and delightful. She gave the southern negro dialect a perfect interpretation with gestures and facial expression as a further aid in bringing out the full meaning of the different selections.

The two Minnie Anne readings were probably the most interesting of the program. In them Mrs. Chilton most vividly set forth in rich negro dialect the experiences of the darky woman at the session of the state legislature during the "carnegie" days, and in the second piece was described the peculiar problems which the same resolute mammy faced when she went into the business of retailing her cakes and pies.

There was a good sized audience present and all seemed to enjoy the entertainment.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

WHERE ARE THE SONGS OF YESTERYEAR?

OUTSIDE my window the other morning I heard a sweet, childish voice singing. I love to hear children sing and I stopped my work the better to listen. And these are the words that sweet child's voice was carolling, "I wonder who's buying the wine for lips that I used to call mine." At this point three other children who were coming down the street took up the refrain and the quartette triumphantly ended—

"I wonder if she ever tells him of me,
Now, one of these children I did not recognize, but the other three I know to be from refined families in our neighborhood. And none of the singers was over twelve years old.

Now what do you think of that?
Myself, I think it is a sad criterion of our state of civilization that our children, the children of refined and sheltered homes, should know and sing songs like that.

Perhaps you will tell me that that is an isolated and unusual instance. I tell you it is not.
Just yesterday I heard one of the sweetest little girls I know cheerfully singing a song in which a child tells of having been promised a rubber dolly if she'd be good, and ends up by pleading, "Now don't you tell her, I've got a teller, down in the cellar behind the wood."

And not long ago, when I had as my guest a young girl of fifteen, whose bringing up has been ultra vigilant, I was completely flabbergasted—yes, that's the only word that will do—to hear her singing something about a lady and a fragile bathing suit which gave way at the wrong time and place and caused a near-by fish to scurry off crying, "This is no place for a good fish like me."

Tell me, grown-ups, did we used to have songs like that in our childhood? Yes, I know, there were some rather improper ballads which we communicated to each other with bated breath, but were songs like that the stuff of our musical knowledge, to be sung openly and commonly on the streets and everywhere? It doesn't seem to me that they were. And on the contrary, it does seem to me that the every-day popular songs the songs which our children inevitably hear and learn, have grown astonishingly vulgar and coarse.

Can't something be done about it?

TALKS WITH MOTHERS

The Habits of Regular Feeding—When Does or Should Training Begin?

(By Gertrude Stevens Ayres.)

AT BIRTHS—The first few days of a child's life are spent in good or bad habits regarding care and feeding. "Educated" nurses and trained mothers is an expression of thought and discussion. Many of us cannot afford the so-called "trained nurse" and some of us, who have tried such have found that they were uneducated in matters concerning the mental development of the new born child, including habit as a mental process.

The idea of "trained mothers" is a new one and not yet adopted to any extent. In addition to courses in cooking, sewing and other manual training, our girls of the future will receive lessons in the care and training of children furnished them in day nurseries connected with the schools. Oliver Wendell Holmes said that a child's education should begin one hundred years before it is born. This prenatal influence on your and your child is out of our province but we can see that our thoughts are clean and wholesome and our lives well ordered and counting for something in the world.

Just as soon as the baby is born habits begin forming and on habits depend character.

Regular Feeding.

This is one of the most important habits not only of the baby but of all childhood. The new born child should be fed every two hours from six in the morning until six in the evening. During the night only two feedings should be given, ten and two o'clock being the best hours. When four weeks old the two o'clock night feeding may be omitted and the time lengthened gradually to two and one half hours between the day feedings. It will take some self control to keep the youngster waiting five, ten or fifteen minutes for the exact time if he is crying lustily. Maybe the father may say with great arrogance "For Heaven's sake feed that child" but if you remain firm and establish the proper habit you and baby will be much healthier and happier in days to come. I have sat watch in hand from one thirty to two o'clock in the morning thinking the minutes, hours. This is but one of the many self sacrifices a mother should make that her child may be well trained.

When three months old the day interval may be lengthened gradually to three hours. By the time baby is a year old he should be on four hour time and no feeding is necessary after six at night unless he demands it about ten. At what age a child can be fed three meals a day depends on its physical development and only when strong and vigorous enough to go from meal to meal without lunching in between.

Many a chronic dyspeptic in adult life owes his trouble to his mother and through the same agency many a child with delicate stomach becomes so well that it never thinks of a meal after it is eaten.

Regular Nourishing Meals and No Lunches.

Should be the motto of every mother. Fruit or a glass of milk may often be given between meals and acid fruits like oranges or grape fruit are better digested than.

Remember the stomach needs rest, as much as any other muscle.

WHITE BREAD AND LIME.

Lime starvation is becoming almost universal among Americans, says Prof. Sherman of Columbia University, because of the common use of fine white flour which is deficient in lime. Other important mineral elements are largely eliminated from wheat with the bran. If one were to live on bread exclusively, it would be best to use entire wheat bread, but the chief objection to white bread is not that it is deficient in lime, which is present in milk in much larger proportion than required by the adult, but because fine white bread, eaten fresh, and imperfectly masticated, forms into dough pellets, which are impenetrable by the digestive fluids, and in conjunction with flesh especially, ferment readily and are perhaps the most serious cause of intestinal fermentation. But if white bread is not eaten fresh it may be doubted whether, as many hold, it is not superior to the whole wheat bread, if taken with milk.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson, I am a married woman and my husband has other girls and takes them to the shows and around town. There is another man who loves me, though, and wants me to go with him. What shall I do?

Do what your conscience tells you. Your husband's wrong-doing is no excuse for your doing wrong.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1)—I have just started High School. There are some boys in my classes whom I am not well acquainted with. Should I speak to them on the street? (2) Is it proper for boys and girls of fourteen and fifteen to exchange rings? (3) Should a boy kiss a girl good night? GOODNIGHT.

(1) If a classmate greets you, simply return the greeting, but do not make friends unless he has a mutual friend introduce you. (2) No. (3) Yes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am married, we have a child and I dearly love my husband. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing. But my husband does not appreciate it. He goes with a married woman. Both of them deny they know each other, but I have often seen them together. What shall I do?

BROKEN-HEARTED WIFE.

You have probably worked so hard that you haven't taken time to keep yourself looking nice. Why not stop working so hard? Tell your husband you need help. Get a washerwoman, anyway, to do the washing and heavy scrubbing. Get some new clothes, learn to make your hair a becoming way. Cold cream your face until it looks smooth and smiling and put on a little powder during the day. Get your hands to look smooth and white. Put some style into your shape. Sleep well, eat well, don't let your husband see that you worry, and be so nice to him that he'll wonder what he

A Guest at Luncheon.
DID it ever occur to any of our readers that real hospitality is a thing of the past? Perhaps I had better modify that a little and say in large cities this is quite true, and not so much in the smaller towns where outside interests are not so great.

A mistaken idea by many a hostess is she must have something "extra" both in food and work when a guest is asked to sit at her table. The greatest honor which can be conferred on any guest is the right kind of a welcome; then if only bread, butter and cup of tea be served she will feel that she has been almost royally entertained.

I am not having in mind the guest who is formally invited to dinner, but one who, if the husband wishes to bring home, can telephone up and say, "Mr. S—is in town. May I bring him up to dinner?" And the cordial hospitable answer will come back: "Yes, he will be most welcome." For that guest only an extra service is all that is necessary. The dinner may have been planned as a plain and simple one. But it will make no difference to your guest, as he will care far more for the welcome he receives than "extras" which have meant work and worry for the hostess.

Another instance came to my memory occasionally, and it is good for them in more ways than one. Not long ago a mother I know was having a very busy day. When the young son came in to lunch he said: "Mother, I brought Harry in to lunch with us. I know you would be glad and I just saw him and wanted him. I know I should have asked you before, but you see I just couldn't and you don't care, do you?" "Indeed, not," she said. "Harry is

by Barbara Boyd

Woman's Joyous Future

IN a recent book on "Woman and Social Progress," the author, a professor in one of our leading universities, says: "Woman, today stands at the parting of the ways. The old world of subjection and dependence lies behind her; before her, opens the new world of individual development and achievement. Her opportunities for training have never been equalled; her opportunities for activity are daily enlarging. Foremost in opportunity, the American woman may also stand foremost in achievement."

It seems almost as if that future is already here. Mrs. Belmont, a leader in the woman's cause, says:

"Women are today engaged in every walk of life, and they acquire themselves creditably in every calling. Twenty years ago, districts that are now filled with women employed as clerks, stenographers, and typewriters were seldom visited by women. In those days, men stared when they saw an unattended woman in Wall Street; in these days, they pass unnoticed. The sex line is wiped out. The sex atmosphere will soon be a thing of the past. Mentality and worth will dominate; and woman will be regarded for what she really is—a factor in our economic and industrial life."

"In place of trivialities between men and women, there will be human comradeship; in the place of weakness, incapacity, different levels of thought and feeling, there will be real sympathy, appreciation, understanding, and mental co-operation. There will cease to be the eternal barrier of sex."

"When sex ceases to make an abyss that cannot be bridged and the rights of both sexes are the same, woman will stand free, her chains and shackles loose and fallen at her feet. She will rise above the standard of yesterday and today, for the weight of old customs and old forms no longer weigh her down."

"This spark of freedom will kindle, in this woman and that woman, until it will illumine the entire sex and she will hasten to part with false and primitive illusions, and rise with dignity to play the new game, fair and true."

It is a very bright future, is it not, painted by these two prominent leaders of thought of today, one a man, the other a woman—and thus not a one-sided prophesy inspired by the desire of the thing wanted. But it is the result of calm study and clear reasoning; by the one, of economics and social evolution, by the other, of actual conditions. But by the two roads both come to the same ending.

And woman herself who is in the thick of the fray, when the smoke clears away and she can see the progress she is making, knows she is on the road to the goal.

And it is so glorious to feel absolute freedom to do the work one wishes to do in the world, to develop one's individuality in whatever direction one may please, to be free of criticism, convention, and prejudice; that one ought not only to be grateful to those who have labored to break the shackles, but ought also to help, heart and soul, to free all women from the fetters that may still remain.

EXPECT CAPITALISTS WILL VISIT BELOIT

Men Interested in Interurban Project Will Go Over Situation Shortly.

The capitalists who are to put through the Beloit-Delavan interurban railway are expected in Beloit within the next two weeks to bring about an organization of a company to handle the local situation.

This announcement was made by Charles F. Lathers, who said that he was willing now that his name might be used particularly in view of the sneering editorial in another paper last evening.

"The parties who are behind this project," said Mr. Lathers, "are the same as those who constructed the McAdoo tunnel in New York. They have also built short interurban lines in Ohio. It is not well just now to mention their names. I accompanied one gentleman who is connected with the Bank of France and his engineer across country to Delavan, and in that city we received every assurance that the line in Delavan will be taken care of by the people there. The cars are to be operated on the storage battery principle and each car will be a unit by itself. The promoters are figuring on buying the Shopte water power to regenerate their electricity. They will run their cars across the switch track and thereby make connections with the two railroad lines. The engineers with whom I made the trip—and I made two trips with them to Delavan—have already estimated to a nicety just how many tons of rails will be required and other data showing that the cost of the road will be. They went over two different routes and finally determined upon the Shopte route, which will give the road a tremendous milk-carrying business."

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"

What Glasses are to Weak Eyes, Cascarets are to Weak Bowels—a 10-Cent Box Will Truly Amaze You.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One night as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

WEDDING WAS A SURPRISE TO JANESVILLE FRIENDS
Miss Pearl Schoof and George Flakas married at Rockford yesterday afternoon.

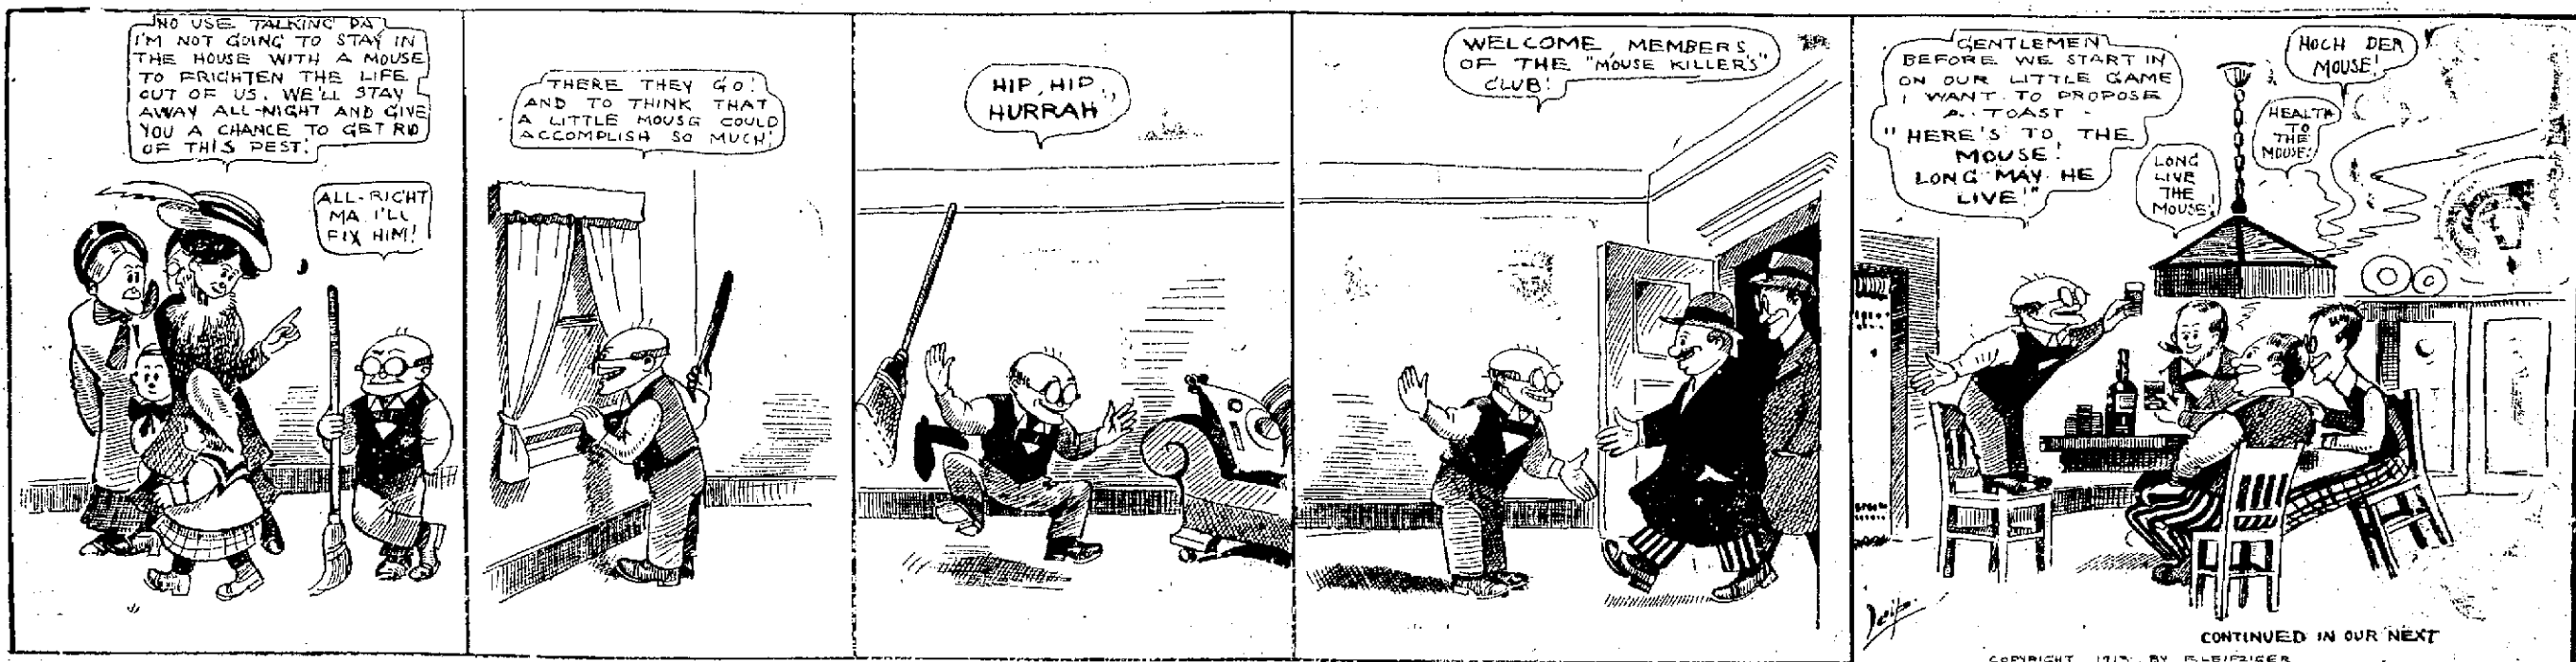

Miss Pearl Schoof and George Flakas were married at Rockford yesterday. Both young people reside in this city and their wedding at this time came as a surprise to their friends.

Mr. and Mr. Flakas will be at home after a brief wedding trip. Mr. Flakas is operator of the motion picture machine at the Apollo theatre, and has resided in Janesville for seven years. His bride is a well-known young lady.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of an obstinate cough more quickly, usually ending it inside of four hours. Excellent, too, for croup, whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help cure a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

"What did I tell you?" jeered Hand. "You didn't tell me anything about this, not that I recollect," Sallie replied tartly.

"Well, the principle's the same," asserted Hand. After a moment his countenance assumed a crafty and jocose expression, which would have put even Sallie on her guard if she had looked up in time to see it. "You won't have so much extra work when mademoiselle's maid arrives," he said slyly. "She'll wait on mademoiselle and attend to her tray when she wants one, and you won't have to do anything for mademoiselle at all."

Sallie became slowly transfixed in a spread-eagle attitude, with the half of a thin white egg-shell held up in each hand.

"A maid! When's she coming?" "Ought to be here now, she's had time enough. But women never can get round without wasting a lot of time." Sallie's glance must have brought him to his senses, for he added hastily: "City women, I mean."

"Hm! She won't touch Parson Thayer's china—not if I know myself!" Sallie disappeared with Miss Redmond's second egg. When she returned, she delivered a message to the effect that Miss Redmond wished to see Mr. Hand when he had finished his luncheon. He was off instantly, calling: "Watch that broth, Sallie!"

It was a different Hand, however, who entered Miss Redmond's room a moment later. His half impudent manner changed to distant respect, tinged with a sort of personal adoration. Agatha felt it, though it was too intangible to be taken notice of, either for rebuke or reward. Agatha was sitting in a rocking-chair by the window, sipping her tea out of the best tea-cup, her tray on a stand in front of her. She looked excited and flushed, but her eyes were tired.

"Can I do anything for you, Mademoiselle?" Hand inquired courteously.

"Yes, please," answered Agatha, and paused a moment, as if to recall her thoughts in order. Hand was very presentable, in negligee shirt which Sallie must have washed while he was asleep. He was one of those people who look best in their working or sporting clothes, ruddy, clean and strong. He would have dwindled absolutely into the commonplace in Sunday clothes, if he was ever so rash as to have any.

"I wish to talk with you a little," said Agatha. "Have you had much opportunity of talking, so far; and perhaps it is time that we understand each other a little better."

"As mademoiselle wishes," conceded Hand.

"In the first place," Agatha went on, "I must tell you that Mrs. Stoddard is coming to help nurse Mr. Hambleton. You have been very good to stay with us so long; and if you will stay on, I shall be glad. But Doctor Thayer thinks you should have help, and so do I. Especially for the next few days."

"That is entirely agreeable to me, Mademoiselle."

"Will you tell me what—what remuneration you were receiving as chauffeur?"

"Pardon me, but that is unnecessary, Mademoiselle. If you will allow me to stay here, either taking care of Mr. Hambleton or in any outdoor work, for a week or as long as you may need me, I shall consider myself repaid."

Agatha was silent while she buttered a last bit of toast. Hand's reticence and evident secretiveness were baffling. She had no intention of letting the point of wages go by in the way Hand indicated, but after deliberation she dropped it for the moment, in order to take up another matter.

"I was wondering," she began again, "how you happened to escape from the Jeanne d'Arc alone in a rowboat, and what your connection with Mon-woman ought ever to have known so much as Lizzie knew. Agatha was to hear how she had been relieved by the telegram several days before, how she had nearly killed herself packing in such haste, how she thought she was traveling to the ends of the earth, coming thus to a region she had never heard of before.

Big Simon, who had been instructed to watch for Lizzie and bring her and her luggage out, presently arrived with the trunks, having sent the maid on ahead in the buggy with his son. Big Simon positively declined to carry the two trunks to the second floor, saying he thought they'd like it just as well, or better, if he left them in the hall downstairs. Lizzie was angrily hesitating whether to argue with him or use the persuasion of one of her mistress' silver coins, when Agatha intervened, and saved her from making the mistake of her life. It is doubtful if she could have lived in lion after having been guilty of tipping one of its foremost citizens. And even if she had, she would not have got the trunks taken upstairs.

The prospect of discarding Sallie Kingsbury's makeshifts and wearing a dress which belonged to her had more comfort in it than Agatha had ever believed possible; and the reality was even better. She made a toilet, for the first time in many days, with her accustomed accessories, dressed herself in a white gown, and felt better.

"Are these the relatives you were visiting, Miss Redmond?" inquired Lizzie, eaten up with curiosity, which was her mortal weakness.

Agatha paused, struck with the form of the maid's question; but, knowing her liking for items of news, she answered cautiously:

"Not relatives exactly. The Thayers were old friends of my mother."

Lizzie shook out a skirt and hung it in the wardrobe in the far corner of the room. She was bursting to know everything about Miss Redmond's sudden journey, but knew better than to appear anxious.

"The message at the hotel was so indefinite that I didn't know at all what I should do. After the excitement quieted down a little, I went out to visit my cousin Hattie, in the Bronx."

"What sort of excitement?" "Oh, newspaper men, and the manager, and Herr Weimar, of the orchestra, and a lot of other people who came, wanting to see you immediately. They seemed to think I was hiding you somewhere."

Agatha smiled. She could imagine Lizzie in her new-fledged importance, talking to all those people.

"You spoke of a message—" ventured Agatha.

"Yes; the one you sent the day you left, Miss Redmond. The hotel clerk said you had suddenly left town on a visit to a sick relative."

"Oh, yes."

Lizzie's quick scent was already on the trail of a mystery, but Agatha was in no mood just then to give her any version of the events of that Monday afternoon.

"Was there any other message, Miss Redmond? Some word for me, which the clerk forgot to deliver?"

"No, nothing else."

"Mr. Straker came Tuesday morning with some contracts for you to sign. He said that you had an appointment with him, and he was nearly crazy when he found you had gone away without leaving your address."

Agatha smiled more and more broadly, to Lizzie's disgust, but she could not help it. "I don't doubt he was disturbed. Did he come again?"

"Come again, Miss Redmond?" Lizzie hung a blue silk coat over the light, held it carefully up to the light, and turned toward her mistress.

"By the grace of God, he will pull through, I firmly believe," ejaculated Mrs. Stoddard.

As the first words came in that resonant deep voice, Hand thought that the nurse was swearing, though presently he changed his mind.

"Yes, ma'am," he replied with unwonted meekness. Then, "I'll sleep an hour or two, if that is agreeable to you, ma'am."

"Perfectly!" heartily responded Mrs. Stoddard, and Mr. Hand disappeared like the mist before the sun.

It was to be an afternoon of excitement, after all, though Agatha thought that she would apply herself to the straightening out of much necessary business. But after an hour's work over letters at Parson Thayer's desk, there occurred an ebullition below which could be nothing less than the arrival of Lizzie. Agatha's maid, with sundry articles of luggage. She was a small-minded but efficient city girl, clever enough to keep her job by making herself useful, and sophisticated to the point of indecency. with the mien of a person who isn't to be bamboozled. "He came twice every day to see if I had any word from you; and when I went to Cousin Hattie's he called me up on the phone every morning and evening. Most unreasonable, Mr. Straker was. He said there wasn't a singer in town he could get to fill your engagements, and he was losing a hundred dollars a day. He's very much put out, Miss Redmond."

"Well, I was, too," said Agatha, but somehow her tone failed to satisfy the maid. To Agatha the thought of the dictatorial manager fluttering about New York in quest of a vanished singer—well, the picture had its humorous side. It had its serious side, too, for Agatha, of course, for the moment she put off thinking about that. Lizzie, however, had borne the brunt of Mr. Straker's vexation, and in that lumber-box she called her mind, she regarded the matter solely as her personal cue to come more prominently upon the stage.

"Then your accompanist came every morning, as you had directed, Miss Redmond; and Madame Florio sent word a dozen times about those new gowns."

Lizzie, with the memory of her sudden importance, almost took up the role of baffled innocence. "I declare, Miss Redmond, I didn't know what to do or say to those people. The whole thing seemed so irregular, with you not leaving any word of explanation with me."

"That is true, Lizzie; it was irregular, and certainly very inconvenient. And it is serious enough, so far as breaking my engagements is concerned. But the circumstances were very unusual and—pressing. Some one else gave the message at the hotel, and, as you know, I had no time even to get a satchel."

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

THE MAN WHO FORGOT

In the heart of a great city, teeming with two-horse teams, he stood, a pitiable figure, thinking, thinking, thinking. Overhead the sky was full of little clouds, racing about with trifled edges.

At last he appealed to a kindly officer.

"I don't know what is the matter with me," he said, "but I have forgotten my name!"

And, indeed, his plight was pitiable. "Poor devil!" commented the officer. "Maybe I can help you. Is it Jones?"

The distracted man shook his head from side to side. (See footnote.)

"I'll go over some of the names I know," said the policeman, compassionately, and maybe one of 'em'll be it. Is it Jones, Kronkheit, Slaaetri, Jones, Frothingham, Petersburgh, Silfertanks, Jones, Sowerbags, Slipp-weller, or Jones?"

But after each name the poor fellow shook his head, and always in the same direction.

"Ah!" shouted the policeman suddenly. "I got it. Maybe you never was christened."

The stranger grasped his hand and the puzzled look left his face.

"Thanks!" he said. "I'm forever forgetting that."

(Footnote: Indicating negation.)

Just as We Predicted Wednesday

The wise owners and active agents of Janesville and vicinity, who really have desirable real estate to sell and are determined to sell it, got busy and sent their advertisements in time to reach the more than six thousand families who will read today's Gazette.

Property owners, did you tell your agent you were willing to spend a little of your money to help sell your property?

Or, are you allowing him enough commission on the sale to justify him in spending his money to advertise your property?

In either case, just to satisfy yourself whether or not he is using the best method of interesting buyers, scan these real estate columns now and see if the property you want sold is listed here today.

If your agent has failed to give your salable property the publicity afforded by these columns from day to day, better change agents and place your property in the hands of some of the live ones who are represented here, or else place your own ad here and sell your property yourself.

The agent who fails to appreciate the importance of the fact that these real estate columns go into the hands of over four thousand more families than any other Janesville daily newspaper, might easily fail to recognize a good buyer if he saw one.

If your property isn't advertised here today, see that it is tomorrow.
